Investment Philosophy

Superior equity investments are over time the largest potential source of 'added value' to a portfolio. Our equity management focuses on security selection to add most of the value. McLean Budden's investment process is rooted in a team approach, with strong fundamental research. We look for companies with stable earnings growth, strong management teams and sound balance sheets. A defining characteristic of our firms that our investment management approach has been consistently applied through various market cycles.

Equity investments tend to be in large capitalization companies which have strong growth potential in terms of both the industry in which they operate and the company itself.

The investment managers at McLean Budden adhere to three basic principles of investment management: to add value in the management of each asset class; to lessen volatility in asset mix management; and to adhere to the long-term risk/reward profile of each mandate.

Investment Objective & Strategy

To provide a superior rate of return, primarily through capital appreciation, by investing in a diversified portfolio of about 50 to 60 stocks. The portfolio is predominately large cap oriented with a style neutral approach. Offshore investments will include American Depository Receipts (ADRs).

Investment Style

McLean Budden employs a bottom up investment discipline. Companies with stable earnings growth, strong management teams, and sound balance sheets are emphasized. Each holding must possess superior return potential based on work conducted by the research team in order to be included.

Investor Suitability

The McLean Budden Global Equity Growth strategy is ideal for investors seeking:

- > A diversified portfolio of both American and offshore equities
- > A portfolio with an emphasis on both income and capital appreciation
- > A portfolio with emphasis on high quality global companies chosen for their above average earnings growth and/or relative value, strong management and solid financial position
